

QIE, Ruifeng (Amy)

Ph.D. Candidate

B.Sc. in Journalism

Indiana University Bloomington, Indiana, United States

M.Sc. in Journalism

Syracuse University, New York, United States

☎ (+86)18547249549

✉ 20481667@life.hkbu.edu.hk

Research Interests:

- Health communication
- Digital media and platform
- Communication in aging group

Refereed Journal Article:

Sundar, S., Song Y., Qie R. (2022). Media Effects Research in the Age of Artificial Intelligence, Automation, and Algorithms: Insights from a Pioneering Interdisciplinary Scholar. Communication & Society (61), 1-23

Conference Paper Presentation

Xie J., Qie, R. (2022). Examine the impact of corporate apology on customer sentiment perception and purchase intention. Paper presented at the Association for Education in Journalism and Mass Communication, Detroit, Michigan, United States, August 2022.

Zhou, P., Qie, R. (2022). The Relationship Between Family Communication Patterns and Smart Voice Technology Use in Parent-Child Communication in China. Paper presented at the 23rd Annual Conference of The Society for Phenomenology and Media, Beijing, China, March 2022.

Zhou, P., Qie, R. (2022). Political Communication in Family Communication in the Age of Artificial Intelligence: Who is More Trustworthy to Teenagers, Parents or Robots? Paper presented at the 75th Annual World Association for Public Opinion Research, Dubai, United Arab Emirates, November 2022.

Zhou, P., Qie, R. (2021). Family Communication in the Age of Smart Technology in China: Investigating the Relationship Between Family Communication Patterns and Smart Voice Interaction Technology Use. Paper presented at the 1st International Academic Conference on intelligence Communication and Health Governance, Wuhan, China, December 2021.

Ni, S., Moon, N., Qie, R. (2021). Comparing Covid-19 fact-check usage across political communities on Twitter. Paper presented at the 4th Annual Conference of Politics and Computational Social Science, Boston, United States, June 2021.